

CAROLINA VESTER

Carolina Vester has an international background due to her double citizenship—German by birth and as daughter of an Italian mother acquired Italian citizenship by jus sanguis—and U.S. Residence due to Grandparents with American citizenship. Carolina is currently studying at the University of Miami seeking a double Major in Visual Communication and Graphic Design. Though still in the Undergraduate stage, she has already gathered hands on achievements in the fields of her Majors these being: The Coral Gables High School Newspaper Editor in Chief and Design Editor of the publication, as well as the graphic designer of several volumes of the newsletters of two international organizations such as the Comites Miami—Italian Committee for the Italian Community of the Southeast of the US—and the Miami Council for International Visitors (MCIV).

Carolina's skills are also worthy of recognition. She speaks and is still improving her five languages these being: English, German, Italian, French, and Spanish. In addition she is competent in designing web and newspaper layouts using Adobe software such as Illustrator, Page Maker, Photo Shop, I-Photo, and InDesign. Further she shows a proficient use of Quick Books Point of Sale, Class, Program Registration, Premier, Office 2003 Professional and XP: Word, Excel, Publisher, Power Point, and all Internet and e-mail functions. Despite her busy Agenda, Carolina has time for extracurricular activities such as FCCLA (Family Community Career Leaders of America) where elected vice president for organizing community service projects as well as club meetings and fund raising; Quill & Scroll where elected vice president for all community club activities; is an active member of both the Swim and Water Polo Teams; and is an active member as well of Women of Tomorrow, which is organized and sponsored by NBC 6.
